The Flammable Refrigerant training project aims to support the implementation of international agreements, first and foremost the Kigali Amendment to the Montreal Protocol, which regulates the phase-down of HFCs. The project is commissioned by the German Ministry for the Environment, Climate Action, Nature Conservation and Nuclear Safety (BMUKN). The implementing organization is the Deutsche Gesellschaft für Internationale Zusammenarbeit (GIZ) GmbH. The National Ozone Unit (NOU) of the Department of Forestry, Fisheries, & the Environment (DFFE) is the GIZ's implementing partner in South Africa.
